

Industry Sectors:

Government

Education

Journalism

Business & Industry

Justice/Law

Nature of work & types of jobs:

Airline Route Planning &
Marketing

Export Manager

International Trade
Lawyer

Manager, International
Operations

Using Social Media:

LinkedIn can be an effective way to access industry professionals and build your professional network.

About International Business

A concentration in international business provides you with the cultural, political, economic, and linguistic background needed to work effectively in a variety of global environments. The increase in globalization has created a need for successful business managers who think on a global scale and possess specialized knowledge and skills required to manage multicultural and multinational workforces.

Career Options

The following are examples of career paths in international business:

International Firms

International firms face unique challenges and there are many opportunities to work on international issues regardless of your business area or whether you work domestically or internationally. New grads usually start out working domestically for firms with an international focus to gain experience before moving into international activities.

International Logistics

Logistics refers to the moving, storing, and distributing of goods. These functions can be managed internally by a firm, or by external logistics providers. The most common activities are involved in the international import and export of goods. New grads typically start in a coordinator or analyst position to learn about the firm's logistical needs.

International Relations

International Relations studies foreign affairs and global issues. Individuals in this area often work for government or universities. For example, with the government, you may specialize in researching and advising on international policy, promoting national industries to foreign partners, immigration, or consular affairs. New grads can apply for these government positions after finishing their undergraduate studies or after gaining some industry experience.

Clubs & Associations

Both work and volunteer experience can help you gain the necessary skills to get a job in the field of international business.

Recommended Clubs on Campus:

- Business Students' Association- www.goodmanbsa.com

Associations, Volunteer Organizations, and Other Resources:

- International Business Opportunities Centre- www.international.gc.ca
- International Bureau Chambers of Commerce- www.iccwbo.org
- International Business Forum- www.ibf.com
- World Economic Forum- www.weforum.org
- World Trade Organization- www.wto.org

International Experience

Individuals with an interest in International Business may consider doing an international exchange for a semester at one of Brock's partner business schools. You will have the opportunity to travel, experience other cultures and the business world in a truly global context.

How We Can Help

Career Education provides various services and hosts different events to help prepare students for the job search process. Check out our workshops or book an appointment with our Goodman office.

You are also encouraged to attend the following events, hosted by Career Education:

1. "Exploring Careers In..." Series - meet alumni and industry professionals
2. Networking Breakfast - meet employers from different companies and find out about job opportunities

Competencies

Ability to Communicate with Other Cultures	Ability to Cope with Ambiguity	Ability to Work Independently and in a Team
Understand Global Strategies	Formal Training in Second or Third Language	Sensitivity, Adaptability, & Flexibility
Open Mindedness	Negotiation Skills	Strong Interpersonal Skills
