

Media release Cool Climate Oenology and Viticulture Institute (CCOVI)

BROCK

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE Jan. 11, 2008

Change in leadership at CCOVI

Isabelle Lesschaeve recently stepped down from her position as Director of the Cool Climate Oenology and Viticulture Institute (CCOVI) at Brock University to more fully pursue her roles in teaching and research at the University.

Lesschaeve will continue to teach in the Oenology and Viticulture (OEVI) program, train students, and engage actively in CCOVI research and provide service to CCOVI.

"I thank Isabelle for the hard work and guidance she offered as Director of CCOVI over the last four years," says Joffre Mercier, Acting Dean of the Faculty of Mathematics and Science.

A decision about CCOVI governance will be made following recommendations of an ad hoc committee headed by David Siegel, Dean of the Faculty of Social Sciences. Until such recommendations are made, CCOVI will report directly to Mercier. This change took effect Jan. 11.

CONTACTS:

Joffre Mercier Acting Dean Faculty of Mathematics and Science (905) 688-5550, ext. 3421 amercier@brocku.ca James Cooper CCOVI Communications Officer (905) 688-5550, ext. 5222 james.cooper@brocku.ca