Courage to Soar

Alternative Secondary Program

Students in this DSBN program of a variety of ages and backgrounds worked together over the course of one week to create a "Team Courage to Soar" lacrosse jersey in commemoration of their class identity and as a celebration of the traditional sport of Lacrosse invented by the Haudenosaunee peoples of the Six Nations long before European contact.

Each student contributed to the jersey, whether through graphic design, sewing, painting, or embellishing the fabric of the jersey to express who they are as a person.
