

CALL FOR APPLICANTS

DISPATCHERS

APPLY HERE!

Are you an undergraduate student interested in the study of Canada? Apply to be a Dispatcher! Dispatchers will attend three in-person or online events during the academic year and report on what they witness. By producing a 1000-word blogpost for each event attended, it will be an opportunity to summarize and reflect on different aspects in the study of Canada, from a critical, collaborative and interdisciplinary perspective. Dispatches will be published on the website of the Robarts Centre for Canadian Studies, with a biographical note of dispatchers. This initiative is in collaboration with Brock University, Mount Allison University, and Trent University.
