

Chancellor's Chair for Teaching Excellence

Interaction and learner performance in the online environment

Anamitra Shome
Business

The project aims to investigate interaction and learner performance in the online environment. The goal of the proposed research program is to ascertain whether the use of instructor feedback about student activity on an online course (using data captured by the course software) will lead to enhanced student performance as well as student satisfaction on (with) the course.