

POSTHUMANISM RESEARCH INSTITUTE

IN THIS ISSUE:

PRI TALK

We're All Gonna Die!

SEMINAR

~ vode su život ~ apilji sunt vijaca
~ waters are life ~

CALL FOR PAPERS

(Inter)Disciplinary Bodies

NEW BOOK

Posthuman Pathogenesis:
Contagion in Literature, Arts, and Media

CALL FOR PARTICIPANTS

UCD Environmental Humanities
Conference

CALL FOR PAPERS

Open Cultural Studies

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

Interconnections:
Journal of Posthumanism

Posthumanism Research Institute
Contact and find us:
PRI@brocku.ca
<https://brocku.ca/pri/>

PRI TALK:

We're All Gonna Die!

JOIN US ON LIVESTREAM

We're All Gonna Die!

Understanding the Origins and Evolution of the Idea of Human Extinction

February 13, 2024 – 13:00-14:30 (ET)

In this talk, Émile Torres will give an overview of their new book, Human Extinction: A History of the Science and Ethics of Annihilation (Routledge, 2023), and will examine where our contemporary idea of human extinction came from, how it evolved over time, as well as the ethics of human extinction through to contemporary work on "existential risks."

Response by Trevor Norris

More information about the talk can be found on:
<https://brocku.ca/pri/>

Émile P. Torres is a philosopher and historian whose work focuses on existential threats to humanity and civilization. They have published on a range of topics, from machine superintelligence to the ethical implications of human extinction, and are a contributing writer at Salon and Truthdig.

Their most recent book is Human Extinction: A History of the Science and Ethics of Annihilation (Routledge, 2023). For more, visit their website at www.xriskology.com.