In writing the assessment of the Comprehensive Exam, the assessor is asked to comment on as many of the following criteria as are applicable:

1. The logical development and presentation of the salient aspects of the topic selected
2. The selection and use of relevant theoretical literature from a variety of knowledge areas and/or disciplines.
3. The critical assessment of related research literature.
4. The analysis and synthesis of conceptual material.
5. The articulation of a theoretical model which integrates the salient issues identified through the critical analysis of the literature
6. Quality and organization of writing

Notes:

Oral Portion:

Student has successfully presented their research at a conference or other public forum and has provided documentation and/or one of their committee members was in attendance

Student has not presented their research at a conference or other public forum and/or has not provided documentation of the presentation.

Given the above, we the members of the committee have determined that the:

Comp satisfactory and accepted as complete. All three committee members have passed the student on both the written and oral components. Requires no further revision.

Comp requires revisions: This will normally involve adding information or literature and rewriting sections of the paper. Student revisions will be resubmitted to the committee within two weeks, but student is not required to redo their oral exam.

Comp is unsatisfactory to one or more committee members and must be re-done using a new paper and a new oral defence. If the student fails a second time, they have failed the comp and will be asked to withdraw from the program.
