Describe your career path?

Before graduating, I knew I wanted to work in the not-for-profit sector! While studying at Brock, I volunteered with the Kristen French Organization which really solidified my passion for building a career that I am passionate about! After graduating, I took a summer internship with Hospice Niagara where I was able to take everything I learned in school and apply it to real life! After that internship ended, I knew I wanted to continue working in not-for-profit marketing and found the perfect fit in health promotion!

What do you like about what you are doing now?

My role with CASON allows me to work within the community. I am able to raise awareness for addiction by facilitating workshops in schools and for different not-for-profit agencies like FAC's and NRP.

What advice would you give current students or recent graduates interested in pursuing a career in your professional field?

Be confident in your abilities as a new graduate! Finding a job right out of university can be very frustrating, but do not give up - take every opportunity given to you because you never know what it might turn into.

What is something people may not know about you?

I worked for Brock's Smart Start Team in my 2nd and 3rd year! This experience taught me many of the skills I use in my work today - like public speaking! If you are looking for a rewarding and fun summer job - apply for Smart Start!
