This course provides an in-depth exploration of the Canadian judiciary’s structure, functions, and political roles. We will examine: the judiciary’s institutional framework; the human dimension of judging—for example, decision-making and appointment; the policy impact of judicial rulings; and players in the judicial process, including interest groups and governments. Particular attention will be paid to the criminal justice process, and how the judicial system has been influenced by the Charter of Rights and Freedoms. Although the course primarily uses a seminar discussion format, this will be supplemented with in-class smaller group activities, and mini-lectures by the instructor.

Course Learning Objectives

Students will be expected to leave the course with not only a greater technical understanding of the judicial process in Canada, but a better appreciation of the legal dimension of politics and the politics of law. More specifically, students will be expected to:

- demonstrate a critical understanding of leading issues in this area, including judicial selection, judicial independence and accountability, access to justice, the legitimacy of judicial review, and the role of courts in the policy process
- through the research paper, develop a sustained, critical argument about an aspect of Canada’s judiciary using leading scholarly sources, in a manner consistent with academic integrity
- articulate their understanding of the course material both in writing and verbally in a seminar environment
- engage respectfully with the class in discussions and debates
- through course readings and the independent research project, demonstrate familiarity with interdisciplinary scholarship on courts from political science and law, and potentially also criminology, sociology, and psychology.

Required Texts (Available at the Brock University Bookstore)

For copyright reasons and to save you money, this course makes use of library reserves (including several e-readings) and our Isaak page rather than a coursepack from the bookstore. Please note, most reserves are available in electronic format. Apologies in advance for any inconvenience.

Requests for extra work will not be granted (ex., seminars missed without an acceptable explanation).

Seminar Participation

As a seminar, this course is based on the active involvement of all participants. Accordingly, attendance at weekly seminars is mandatory, and you should complete assigned readings before class and be prepared to contribute meaningfully to in-class discussion. You will be graded on your ability to make original points, to engage other students’ comments, and to incorporate the readings in your comments. NOTE: Smart phone use is not permitted in seminar; they are a distraction and texting during a discussion shows disrespect for other students. As several seminar readings are in electronic format, laptops and tablets can be used but please don’t let them become a distraction.

Memos

You will write eight short (500-600 word) memos throughout the term, which analyse the readings for a particular seminar. To clarify, this means you have some choice. Doing these memos helps ensure that class participants are prepared to engage in productive discussions. The memos should not simply summarize the readings, but integrate them—what are the central arguments of the readings, and how do the readings relate to each other? Memos must be submitted to me via the Messages function in Isaak for this course by the end of the Wednesday before that seminar.

Research Proposal Requirements

The research proposal is 3-4 pages (4P19)/5-6 pages (5P19) in length PLUS a preliminary bibliography, and is due in class. The research proposal will discuss the central question to be explored in the paper (something pertaining to the Canadian judicial system), a working hypothesis/thesis statement and a brief review of the relevant literature. You should aim for 6-10 sources, which should be primarily books and journal articles—don’t use more than a couple of internet sites, if any. All topics must be approved by the instructor. Make sure to keep your returned proposal, as you will need to submit the graded copy with your term paper.

Research Paper Requirements

The length of the research paper for Politics 4P19 is 4500-5000 words (~15 pages) and for Politics 5P19 6000-6500 words (20-22 pages). The term paper must be double-spaced with 1” margins and a 12 point font, and use an accepted citation style consistently. The term paper is an independently designed research project by the student and approved by the instructor, and is based on the research proposal submitted during the term. [NOTE: An extended literature review of a subject might be a suitable topic.] There are an almost unlimited number of possible topics for this course, but here are some suggestions below—you are not restricted to these, and in most cases, it will be necessary to narrow the suggested topic. As the paper topic is open, this course uses the electronic plagiarism detection service Turnitin.com, which is integrated into the Assignments tool in Isaak—you will thus need to submit a hardcopy and also upload your paper to Isaak. If you object to uploading your assignments to Turnitin.com for any reason, please notify the instructor to discuss alternatives.
• Judicial appointment in Canada – evaluate existing system, proposals for reform; democratic input vs. greater “professionalization”/bureaucratization; etc.

• Judicial independence – what does it mean? How secured in Canada? How much is enough? discipline of judges without removal; possible links between independence and appointment

• Politicization of the judiciary, especially the SCC; evaluate whether positive development

• Role of interest groups in courts; litigation strategies; success rate

• Alternative dispute resolution (mediation, arbitration; small claims courts, circle sentencing, etc.)

• Criminal justice (many topics possible here: impact of Charter; judicial discretion over sentencing; young offenders; “criminalization” of public policy; due process vs. crime control vs. victims’ rights models vs. restorative justice; separate Aboriginal justice systems; etc.)

• Judicial decision-making – impact of ideology, gender, ethnicity, religion, region, etc.

• Policy impact of courts – could focus on a particular policy area, apply models of impact

• Access to justice – cost of lawyers and litigation; legal aid; possible reforms

Penalties for Late Assignments

A FIVE (5) PER CENT PER DAY penalty will be assigned for late assignments (except memos, which are not accepted after due date). Extensions of due dates are granted only in circumstances that are beyond the student’s control, such as health problems that are supported by a medical certificate, or other clearly equivalent situations. Time management problems are not grounds for extensions. Start early! Papers more than one week overdue without documentation will not be accepted.

Brock University Academic Policies

- The last day to withdraw without academic penalty is Friday, March 9, 2018. You will receive at least 15% of your final grade by March 2, 2018.

- If you require academic accommodations related to a documented disability to participate in this course, please contact Student Accessibility Services in the Student Development Centre (4th floor Schmon Tower, ext. 3240). You are also encouraged to discuss any accommodations with the instructor well in advance of due dates and scheduled assessments.

- Brock University acknowledges the pluralistic nature of the undergraduate and graduate communities such that accommodations will be made for students who, by reason of religious obligation, must miss an examination, test, assignment deadline, laboratory or other compulsory academic event. Students requesting academic accommodation on the basis of religious obligation should make a formal, written request to their instructor(s) for alternative dates and/or means of satisfying requirements as soon as possible.

- The University will accommodate students whose studies become interrupted, or who may be unable to complete academic work, due to an incapacitating medical condition. In these situations, the student must complete the Brock University Student Medical Certificate and include any relevant medical documentation to support his/her request for academic accommodation based on medical grounds. The University may, at its discretion, request more detailed documentation in certain cases.
- Intellectual Property Notice: All slides, presentations, handouts, tests, exams, and other course materials created by the instructor in this course are the intellectual property of the instructor. A student who publicly posts or sells an instructor’s work, without the instructor’s express consent, may be charged with misconduct under Brock’s Academic Integrity Policy and/or Code of Conduct, and may also face adverse legal consequences for infringement of intellectual property rights.

Tentative Schedule and Readings

DEPARTMENT OF POLITICAL SCIENCE

STATEMENT ON ACADEMIC MISCONDUCT

Academic misconduct is a serious offence. The principle of academic integrity, particularly of doing one’s own work, documenting properly (including use of quotation marks, appropriate paraphrasing and referencing/citation), collaborating appropriately, and avoiding misrepresentation, is a core principle in university study. Students should consult Section VII, “Academic Misconduct”, in the “Academic Regulations and University Policies” entry in the Undergraduate Calendar, available at http://brocku.ca/webcal to view a fuller description of prohibited actions, and the procedures and penalties.

This course may use Turnitin.com, phrase-matching software. If you object to uploading your assignments to Turnitin.com for any reason, please notify the instructor to discuss alternative submissions.

POLICY ON LATE ESSAYS

The policy of the Department is that essays received by the instructor or deposited in the Political Science Department essay box after 4:00 p.m. or at a time designated by the instructor, of the date on which they were due will be penalized two per cent for each day late from Monday through Friday and five per cent for the period from Friday 4:00 p.m. to Monday 8:30 a.m., and that no paper will be accepted two weeks after the due date. Papers are last collected from the essay box each weekday at 4:00. Instructors may establish more restrictive deadlines or more severe penalties in particular courses – check the course outline. Extensions of due dates are granted only in circumstances that are beyond the student’s control, such as health problems that are supported by a medical certificate, or other, clearly equivalent situations.

An essay is considered received when the original hard copy (printed-not disk) of the paper is in the hands of the instructor or in the box outside the Political Science Department’s office. (ALL ESSAYS MUST INCLUDE A TITLE PAGE WITH THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION CLEARLY MARKED: STUDENT NUMBER, TA and INSTRUCTOR’S NAME, COURSE NAME and NUMBER).

Having an essay date-stamped by security, or the library, or anyone else does not constitute receipt of the essay by the Political Science Department. Instructors may require that essays be submitted electronically through turnitin.com. In this case, students must consult with the Instructor on what constitutes a late essay.

Time management problems are not grounds for extensions. You are strongly urged to avoid these penalties by beginning to work on essays early in the term; by setting your own target dates for completion that are several days before the due date; and by carefully budgeting your time.

POLICY ON RETURNING MARKED ESSAYS

Marked essays will normally be returned during class meetings or at the final examination. Students who are not in class to receive their essays or do not receive them at the final examination can obtain them in two ways:

- directly from the instructor during his/her office hours (unless the instructor specifies in the course outline or by notice on his/her office door that this option is not available), and/or
- directly from the instructor on specific days and at specific times announced in class or posted on his/her office door.

Note: Essays that are not picked up within six months after the end of term will be shredded.
