

A birding event... Chimney swift in town?

In Celebration of UNESCO's World Bird Migration Day (May 10, 2017) and the third year of the project on chimney swift, Brock Environmental Sustainability Research Centre and the UNESCO Chair in Community Sustainability are inviting you to a birding event on May 15, 2017 at 7:10 pm at Café Mahtay.

The event aims to introduce this special bird Chimney swifts have been sighted not only downtown St Catharines, including the former Canada Hair Cloth Co. Limited, which is now the Brock University's Walker School of Fine and Performing Arts but in many parts of Niagara. The evening will include a couple of presentations to introduce the bird and describe the results of the first two years of the projects. We will then walk to the Walker School to observe the birds (hopefully we still have our family or more a roost?).

Join us for an interesting evening of birding in town. Make sure to bring your binoculars!

March 15, 2017
7:10 pm until dark
Mahaty Café, 241 Saint Paul Street, St. Catharines

RSVP:

<https://www.eventbrite.com/e/chimney-swift-watch-in-st-catharines-following-up-the-birds-for-the-third-year-tickets-33801499194>